THE PRESIDENT AHEAD.

The great struggle over the New York Custom-House nominations, between President Hayes and Senator Conkling, has at last ended in a triumph for the President. The Senate went into an executive session on Monday evening to consider the nominations, and though Conkling strained every nerve to defeat the appointment of Mr. Merritt, as Collector of the Port of New York, the Senate confined the nominations by a vote of 33 to 24. This is certainly a signal victory for Mr. Hayes, and it can not fail to be a humiliation to Mr. Conkling. He has been unrelenting in his hostility toward the President and for personal reasons undertook the task of defeating the appointment of Mr. Merritt. For several months it was thought he would finally succeed in preventing the confirmation of the appointment. He had a powerful grip on the Republican party of New York. For years he had virtually controlled the appointments of that State, and demanded that right under President Hayes' administration. The President joined issue with the Senator on that point, and gave the dashing and proud New York Senator to understand that he was not President as regarded the New York appointments. This raised the ire of Conkling, and from that hour he sought to defeat the civil service policy of the President. Mr. Conkling can now see that he has made a grave mistake, and that neither the State of New York, nor the great mass of people of other States, give him any sympathy.

The President's message sent to the Senate on Friday afternoon totally unmanned Mr. Conkling. It caused him to lose the grip he seemed to have on the weasand of Republicanism in New York. The message was an important document, carefully written, honorable in tone, and just in its conclusions. Among other things the President undertook to tell the Senators that the Custom-House in New York "collects more than two-thirds of all the customs revenues of the government. Its administration is a matter not of local interest, merely, but is of great importance to the people of the whole country. For a long period of time it has been used to manage and control political affairs. The officers suspended by me are and for several years have been engaged in the active personal management of the party politics of the city and State of New York. The duties of the offices held by them have been regarded as of subordinate importance to their partisan work. Their offices have been conducted as a part of the political machinery under their control. They have made the custom house the center of partisan political management. A custom house should be a business office. It should be conducted on business principles." Every honest man would respond, amen, to these words of the President, because they are words of wisdom and are spoken for the public good. He then improved the opportunity to also tell the Senators that he believed that the people of New York and of the country generally wish the Custom House to be administered solely with a view to public interest "it is my purpose to do all in my power to introduce into this great office reforms which the country desires. With my information in the facts of the case and with a sense of the responsible obligation imposed upon me by the Constitution, to 'take care that the laws be faithfully executed,' I regarded it as my plain duty to suspend the officers in question, and to make the nomination now before the Senate in order that this important office may be honestly and efficiently administered."

The message was such a common sense document and was so honest and sincere in its tone, that it made a deep impression on the public mind and undoubtedly caused a few Senators to vote for confirmation who would otherwise have followed the beck of Conkling.

That the President is right and Conkling wrong, there can be no difference of opinion among men who are not blinded by partyism. That the New York Custom-House has been a political machine shop for many years there is no doubt. The revenues may have been honestly collected, but aside from collecting the revenues, it also assumed the responsibility to manage and otherwise control the appointments and politics of New York under the dictatorship of Senator Conkling. In other words, Senator Conkling and Collector Arthur jointly undertook to be President so far as the New York appointments are concerned.

To give this question a practical bearing, and to illustrate the unwise position of Conkling and Arthur, suppose that Postmaster Patterson, of this city, whose management of the postoffice is commended by all regardless of party, should make that office the headquarters for a political ring, and should demand the right to control city caucuses, county conventions, county nominations, and Legislative nominations; would that sort of conduct meet with the approval of men who desired to see a "square deal," and of the great masses of voters in the county who wanted to have as much to say about who shall be nominated as the supposed postoffice ring? Of course it would not. It would be condemned by ninety-nine voters out of a hundred. They would not support a party which would allow this sort of political management. The Custom-House of New York has been just such an institution, and because the President has had the courage to make a reform he should receive the congratulations of the country.

The February number of The North American Review opens with an article by Senator Hoar on "The Conduct of Business in Congress," which calls attention to defects in the present system of transacting business in the national legislature, and suggests improved methods. This is followed by a paper on "The Mysteries of American Railroad Accounting," by "An Accountant," showing how the most popular railway enterprises are conducted and urging an immediate revision of the laws bearing upon railway management. "A Statesman of the Colonial Era," by General Richard Taylor, describes the career of George Mason, of Virginia, and attributes to that gentleman many sayings and writings that have hitherto been credited to other men. Hon. D. H. Chamberlain writes on "Reconstruction and the Negro," and presents the results of his experiences and observations while occupying the gubernatorial chair in South Carolina. "The Empire of the Discontented," by a "Russian Nihilist," is a revelation of the abuses of the Russian rule, and of the influences at work to overthrow the government. The author is a prominent leader of the insurrectionists. "The Scientific Work of the Howgate Expedition," by O. T. Sherman, of the scientific corps, gives a very full statement, and the only one that has been presented to the public, of the scientific results of the recent government preparatory expedition to the polar seas. "Sensationalism in the Pulpit," by Rev. Dr. Taylor, of the Broadway Tabernacle, New York, is a pungent criticism of the theatrical tendencies of certain preachers. The number closes with an article by Prof. T. F. Crane on "Mediæval French Literature," reviewing a class of books known to but few readers in this country. Published at 551, Broadway, New York, and for sale by booksellers and newsdealers generally, at 50 cents per copy.

A GOLDEN JUBILEE.

On Thursday of this week the venerable Archbishop Henni, of Milwaukee, will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of his consecration to the priesthood. The occasion will be one of the most interesting and imposing ever witnessed in this State. The programme is completed, and is published for the benefit of all who desire to attend the ceremonies. In the forenoon of Thursday there will be celebrated the Pontifical High Mass at St. John's Cathedral, and in the afternoon a banquet to the Bishops and Clergy by the Archbishop at St. Mary's Institute. In the evening there will be a torch-light procession and address by the venerable Archbishop at the Cathedral. Preparations have been made for four thousand torchers to appear in line. The music at the Cathedral will be one of the striking features of the occasion. The vocal part of it will be participated in by two hundred well-trained voices.

Archbishop Henni arrived in the United States from Rome in 1829 and first settled in Baltimore, and moved to Milwaukee thirty-five years ago. Milwaukee was a small, unpretending town at that time, and the Catholic Society weak in number and not strong in purse. The young priest went to work with a spirit of earnestness, self-denial, and hope, which were truly remarkable. He succeeded from the first, and has the satisfaction of seeing the diocese become one of the most important in the West. His diocese has increased since 1844, from 2,600 communicants to 180,000, and from about half a dozen small churches to 250 commodious edifices.

The discussion which Bragg's speech started, has not yet ended, and it is very likely that it will be kept up by the Southern papers till the close of the session. It is strange how singularly the Democratic papers view the position of General Bragg. The Washington Post, the organ of the Democratic party in Congress, said last week: "General Bragg, of Wisconsin, cracks his whip too often and too loud. If the Democratic party has to choose between the 128 votes of the Solid South and the three occasionally obtained from Wisconsin, Wisconsin will have to go." This is a fair notice to General Bragg and to his Democratic friends in Wisconsin, that they must go with the South, or he and they are not wanted. We are under the impression that Bragg can not be driven by the Southern Democrats, and that he will crack his whip when he pleases.

There is an attempt now being made by some of the Democratic press to drive General Bragg from the position he has taken on the Southern claims question. But we apprehend he will not scare very easily. Those who think more of party than they do of justice, honor, and economy on the administration of the Government, want him to back down, and allow the South to crack the whip over the Northern Democratic members. General Bragg is no the right side—on the popular side of the great question, and he will, if we are not very much deceived, "hold the fort" and the Republican party will lend him re-inforcements.

There has been a bill introduced in the House of Representatives to pay one Geo. W. Brown, late sheriff of Dodge county, in this State, the sum of $1,443.05 for personal services rendered in connection with the draft of 1863, in that county. George should have waited a little longer and had it settled on the day of judgment.

There is a Texas paper which has the courage to say that it thinks Bayard can beat Grant in 1880. This is the first statement yet made by a Democratic paper that a Democrat can be elected in 1880.

---

The Milwaukee Sentinel asks how Ben Hill and General Bragg would suit the Democracy in 1880. That is all right, and to match it let the Greenbackers take up Ben Butler and Sitting Bull.

---

If Conkling had taken the avice of the Gazette a week ago, he would not have taken a step too far.

CARPENTER.

The Wisconsin Delegation Call in a Body—Their Absence at the Reception Explained.

WASHINGTON, February 4.—The Wisconsin delegation has called in a body upon Senator-elect Carpenter, and has explained to him the reasons why they felt delicate about attending the reception tendered him the other night. The delegation explained that the Committee of Reception was composed of superserviceable Government clerks, many of whom had grown both hot and cold on the Senatorial question, and who sought to worship the rising sun with other local politicians and some District Ring men with whom the delegation did not care to have any association. The Congressmen stated that they did not remain away out of any disrespect to Carpenter, but they did not think that it would be a kindness to their old friend, the defeated candidate, Judge Howe, to participate in such a rubby-dub demonstration, and accordingly remained away. Carpenter, who of course was not advised of the movement which had been made here by the persons who sought to serve themselves more than they did to honor Carpenter, realized the position of the delegation, and good relations are now said to be restored.

HAYES-CONKLING.

The Contest at Last Brought to a Close—The Nomination Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—If the nominations had been confirmed a week ago every one here would have been very much astonished; but sentiment has been growing during the past twenty-four hours, until noon to-day, when the Senate went into executive session, it was generally understood that the verdict would be on the side of the administration. Senator Conkling's friends surrendered about noon, charging that the President and Secretary Sherman had secured votes by the liberal distribution of patronage, but Mr. Conkling himself, at the last minute, if he had doubts of success, would not acknowledge them. It became known this morning that Cameron, of Wisconsin, Ferry, Kirkwood, Oglesby, McMillan, Mitchell, Paddock, Saunders, Rollins, and Windom were on the doubtful list, and before the Senate went into executive session Mr. Conkling had personal interviews with nearly all of them, and discovered at the last minute that while but few of them would announce their intention, they could not be depended upon. All of the Senators have sustained Conkling at every point in his fight with the administration until the last executive session, when he made a bitter and, as some of them think, very unjustifiable attack upon Secretary Sherman's private character. This speech lost Conkling at least three votes. Another resolution for the change among the Northwestern Senators—and it was to some extent concerted—was that if the nominations of Merritt and Burt were rejected, the fight would be continued until the Democrats got control of the Senate, when they could dictate who should hold these very important official and political positions. It became known that Kernan had been using this argument to influence the votes of Democratic Senators in favor of rejection, and it had great weight with the Republicans. It is openly charged that the Berlin mission, New Orleans Marshalship, and other appointments have been used by the President to influence, and it may be true, but there is not evidence yet developed to sustain such charges.

Senator Conkling bears his defeat with composure, and, while he declines to be interviewed, his friends say for him that he will not now confine his attacks on the administration to secret sessions of the Senate. Various rumors are in circulation as to the manner in which he intends to revenge himself, but he has not expressed his intentions.

There is a love feast at the White House this evening, and many of the President's friends have called to congratulate him.

A vote was then taken on the motion for recommittal, and it was lost by seven or eight majority.

The roll being next called on the question of confirming the nomination of General Merritt, the vote resulted—yeas, 33; nays, 24, as follows:

Nays—Allison, Anthony, Blaine, Booth, Bruce, Chaffee, Cockrell, Conkling. Davis, (Ill.), Eaton, Garland, Hamlin, Howe, Jones (Nev.), Kellogg, McDonald, Mitchell, Paddock, Patterson, Rollins, Sargent, Spencer, Teller, Voorhees—24.

Butler, Christiancy, Lamar, Merrimon, Plumb, Thurman, and Wallace, who would have voted aye, were paired with Barnum, Edmunds, McPherson, Ingalls, Sharon, Dorsey, and Cameron (Pa), who would have voted nay.

Kernan, Jones, (Fla.), Maxey, and Wadleigh, though present and not paired, did not vote, and Eustis, making the seventy-sixth member of the Senate, was absent without a pair.

The nomination of Silas W. Burt to be Naval Officer was then disposed of by confirmation without debate, the vote standing as follows:

Nays—Allison, Anthony, Blaine, Booth, Bruce, Chaffee, Conkling, Davis, (Ill) Eaton, Garland, Howe, Jones, (Nev). Kellogg, McDonald, Mitchell, Rollins, Spencer, Voorhees—18.

DEFALCATION.

The Disappearance of the County Clerk of Outagamie County.

Special to the Milwaukee Sentinel.

APPLETON, Feb. 3.—The defalcation and sudden disappearance of County Clerk William H. Lanphear have created a sensation the like of which this city and Outagamie County have not experienced for years. No man in the county had the confidence of the people more fully than the now departed Lanphear. He had held the office of County Clerk for fourteen years, and at three or four elections the Republicans had joined the Democrats in casting their votes for him. The committees appointed by the County Board, each year, to make an investigation into the management of the various county offices, simply took Lanphear's word that everything was all right in the county clerk's office. During most of the fourteen years that he was clerk, the chairman of the County Board had such unbounded confidence in Lanphear that he would leave a number blank orders signed, to be filled out as the clerk saw fit. With the exception of one or two terms, he was not called upon to give bonds. While the people have no disposition to excuse Lanphear for stealing their money, they are making it uncomfortably warm for members of various County Boards who through neglect to perform a plain duty, rendered it possible for an official to rob the county of $4,000 or $500. Lanphear was so confident of his election last fall that he gave a neighbor an order for this year's salary. He left the city within a few days from the expiration of his term, and has not been heard from. It was claimed at first that he had gone to Illinois to visit friends but when the investigating committee found that his presence in Appleton was exceedingly desirable, he was sought for in vain in Illinois, and now a reward of $500 is offered for his return. The county will lose the the whole amount nearly $5,000, as Lanphear has no property and gave no bonds. His conduct causes deep regret on all sides, and the regret is especially bitter among the Odd Fellows, in which order he was prominent, having at one time been the head of the Grand Encampment of Wisconsin.

STATE LEGISLATURE.

The Last Day for the Introduction of Bills.

And There is a Grist of Them in Both Houses.

The Most of Which are of a Local Nature.

Both Houses will Hold an Evening Session for the Reception of Bills.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Special to the Gazette.

MADISON, February 4.—In the Senate bills were introduced appropriating one thousand dollars to the Central Wisconsin Agricultural Fair at Watertown.

To fix the measure of damages in the willful cutting of timber.

Amending the Revised Statutes in the matter of village elections, tax sales, religious services, highways and bridges, and town indemnity bonds.

To provide for the further education of deaf mutes.

Providing for the removal of county treasurers in certain cases.

To facilitate in the extention of trusts assumed by the State in the acceptation of the Wisconsin Central Railroad land grant.

To erect the county of New.

To provide for more rigorous enforcement of insurance laws; also, for more equitable taxation of outside insurance companies.

Concerning the jurisdiction of log driving and booming corporations.

For investigation of the affairs of Wisconsin Railroad Farm Mortgage Land Company, and for inquiry into the condition of the State assessment laws.

A joint resolution was introduced to enquire into the affairs of the Lake Michigan Ship Canal Company.

Bills were introduced prescribing license fee to be paid by insurance companies.

A large grist of local and minor bills were introduced.

Both Houses adjourned till evening.

As this being the last day for the introduction of new business, there is a desire to wait till the last moment therefor.

TO PENSIONERS.

How it is Proposed to Pay the Arrears of Pensions—A New Loan.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The vote of the House on the bill presented by Mr. Burchard, of Illinois, to issue $40,000,000 of bonds to provide for the payment of the arrears of pensions, indicates that a bill can be carried through by a large majority, and it is the intention of the Appropriation Committee to report a bill appropriating $5,000,000 for disbursement during the present fiscal year, and $10,000,000 during the next fiscal year. Commissioner Bentley says that under this bill every pensioner of the United States will receive an average of $750 each. Mr. Mr. Bentley also says that if Congress will appropriate money and give him twenty-five additional clerks he will prepare for settlement under this bill the claims of all persons now on the pension rolls. Mr. Bentley is now sending out circulars to pensioners informing them of the provisions of the bill, and how to make application for the money. He also instructs pensioners not to intrust their cases to claim agents or attorneys of any sort, but to apply directly to the department. The claim agents are making war on Bentley on this account, and some of the Washington papers have been full of abuse of him.

AFTER MANY YEARS.

A Mystery Cleared Up After the Lapse of a Quarter Century—Romance in Real Life in Massachusetts, Stranger than Fiction.

From the Springfield Mass., Union.

A romance in real life, stranger than any fiction, has recently had its denouncment, one of the parties most interested being a resident of this city. This is a widow lady, whose name we are not at liberty to make public for the present, who has recently discovered the where-abouts of a long-lost daughter, stolen from her twenty-seven years ago, when an infant. The lady though a resident of Springfield for some years past, is a native of Hartford county, Conn., and went with her husband after her marriage, to Western New York, which was then a good deal of a wilderness as compared with its condition now. Her first child, a girl, was born there, and she was on her way to rejoin her husband after a temporary separation, when the infant was stolen from her during a long stage journey, and she has never seen the child since, though, as noted above she has recently discovered that she is alive, and living in Wisconsin, where she is married and has three children.

The anguish of the mother at losing her first born child can be conceived but not described. A long fit of sickness followed, and after her recovery all possible search was made for the missing babe, but without success. But the mother never gave up hope of hearing of her child, and after twenty-seven years have elapsed her patience and faith have at last been rewarded. It seems she always suspected a man who carried her some fifteen miles by private conveyance to meet the stage while on her way to meet her husband, of stealing her child, with the intention of adopting it as his own. She now knows that he was the abductor. He gave it to an accomplice, who took it some fifty miles across the border, into Pennsylvania, where it was placed in a family, with a sum of money sufficient to provide for its wants for some time. His evident intention was to reclaim the child when he could do so without suspicion. But the time never came when he dared to do it, and the little girl grew up as the adopted child of the family, finally married the younger brother of the master of the house, and removed to Wisconsin, where the family is prosperous and happy. Communication has been established for some months now between the mother and daughter, and photographs exchanged, which would leave no doubt of the relationship, if any had existed before. They propose to have a meeting soon, near the scene of the tragic parting, more than a quarter of a century ago. What a meeting it will be!

FEMININITIES.

Something About Mrs. Senator Logan.

[From "Under the Gaslights," in the Springfield Monitor, Jan. 19.]

The Capitol gaslights were unusually brilliant. Beneath them moved an anxious, enthusiastic concourse of people. Among them were representative men—men of culture and intellectual force, men who had done service in both civil and turbulent fields. The caucus door was slightly ajar, and through the opening it was uttered, 80 to 26. A soldier boy—a member of the Tennessee Legion—heard the announcement and yelled, "Another march to the sea!" That shout called up the memory of the heroic days of the Republic, when courage was the crowned trade mark of man. Presently there was a gathering under a medley of gaslights. The rambler hears a voice. It comes through a condition of silence: "Time is the vindicator of man and to-night I have been vindicated." In this world of conflict and battle, of goodness and evil, and of thorns and flowers, it is pleasant to realize a vindication, and a satisfaction to know that reverses can be outlived. A pair of keen, black eyes flash with marvelous brilliancy; not as aroused by on inward passion but by the inherent promptings of a worthy pride. There was a time when those eyes exhibited a blackness more piercing than they ever exhibited before or since, and that was when the Army Courier rode to his side in North Carolina and told him of the assassination of Abraham Lincoln.

At that hour he was the strongest and most restless soldier in the republic. Man never saw blacker eyes, and of such a vigorous flashing. Said he to Sherman: "Say the word, and I will wipe the rebel army in our front from the face of the earth in three hours." The rambler passes to another scene. Strong men, men of public action, of political station, and of political calculation are hurrying to and fro. In an upper parlor is a little woman with a head covered with hair that is silver-tinted. She has lived an active life. She has come in contact with the best minds of the earth. She is strong-minded, but not in the common-parlance sense, for in all these latter years of the republic's most marked and eventful history, she has clung to a man in whom she has ever had the strongest faith. In his conflicts she has stood by his side with a zeal that was tireless and with a confidence that was as firm as it was beautiful. Her heart is as strong as is her mind, and as successful in producing results. She knows man, and comprehends his characteristics with a remarkable intelligence. Disorganized forces she can organize, and discordant elements she can mollify readily, and with an ease of grace that commands respect. Under the parlor gaslights these qualities are seldom seen in a developed form.

There are but few women who can meet a vigorous commanding manhood in the arena of political conflict without at least an apparent detraction from the lofty plane where woman is queen, and where her influence is potent in making grand the inner life from whence comes the inspiration that gives man his best resources and most forceful power. The wife of John Adams had such a power, and in the first American Cabinets she concentrated an influence which the nation felt, and which was crystalized into policies which propelled the Republic onward in the march of governmental civilization. Upon the night referred to the rambler beheld a little woman who possessed a similar power. In advance of time she had been a vindicator of the man in whom she had an abiding interest. True, it was a selfish vindication, but none the less a vindication and none the less commendable. "Eighty to twenty-six" was borne to her ears, and a happy smile beamed upon a face modestly traced with the lines of anxiety and care, and with a brightness that hid those lines from the casual glance. The triumph of the black-eyed citizen soldier was her triumph, and his honor and glory was her honor and glory, and all the strong men who ranged about under the gas lights conceded it, and further, that she was one of the most remarkable women of the century.

THE BLACK DEATH.

History of the Plague Now Ravaging the Astrakhan District—Its Effects Upon the System of its Victims.

From the Cincinnati Commercial.

The disease now ravaging the district of Astrakhan is the "black death," which for ages has had its home in Egypt Syria, Greece, Turkey, and the adjoining provinces of Russia, to which countries it is now chiefly limited. The people in the first infected districts are dying, the reports state, like flies. So rapidly has the disease spread that fully 10 per cent. of those in the newly infected districts have perished. No one dares to touch the dead, and they lie unburied in the streets.

In the commencement of the disease there is a sense of weariness and fatigue, shivering, nausea and sickness, confusion of ideas, giddiness and pains in the loins. These are quickly followed by increased stupor and delirium, by pallor and flushing of the face, and a feeling of intense binding or constriction about the heart. Darting pains are felt in the groins, armpits and other parts of the body. The lymphatic glands become enlarged, and carbuncles appear. The tongue becomes dry and brown, and the gums, teeth and lips are covered with a dark fur, while the bowels, which are at first constipated, become relaxed and dark; offensive and sometimes bloody discharges are frequent. The will looses its control over the muscles. About the second or third day livid spots and stripes appear on the skin. In fatal cases—and most are fatal—the pulse gradually sinks, the surface becomes cold and clammy, blood oozes from the mucous surface, and there is either coma or delirium. The victim usually lingers five or six days, and may pass away without a struggle, or in convulsions. It is said that infected persons might visit every country in Europe before the symptoms were recognized, and in this way endanger the whole world.

The plague may be spontaneously engendered by epidemic or epidemic influences; it may originate from local causes, and may be propagated by peculiar contagion. Temperature seems to exert a very great influence over it. In tropical climates it is not known, and it does not long withstand the cold of northern climates. Its particular harvest time in Europe is late in the summer and early in the fall; especially in September. Like the germs of yellow fever, it has thus far evaded the examination of chemists and microscopists. As soon as absorbed it alters the composition of the blood and the condition of the tissues. There is no universal cure for it. In occasional instances fresh air may be of benefit. Cleanliness is generally a preventive, and it is due to this and superior ventilation that foreigners in the Levant are comparatively exempt.

In 1333, so Chinese historians tell us, there were great convulsions in nature, and earthquakes and floods, which were followed by drouths and famines. Hills and lakes disappeared, and the gases rising from the earth and decaying vegetation and animals rendered the air excessively impure. Following these convulsions came the great plague, and before it entered Europe 13,000,000 in China and 25,000,000 people in Western Asia and Northern Africa had died.

It appeared in Russia near where it now prevails, in 1358. Constantinople was attacked, and from there it spread over all Turkey. The disease was carried to Italy, and from thence to France, England and Germany, and the low countries. From England it was conveyed to Sweden and passed over the Baltic Sea into Northern Russia. In only three years it covered the whole of Europe. Half the population of Italy died of it. Fifteen continental cities lost 300,000 inhabitants, London 100,000, and in Europe 25,000,000 people perished.

The terrible disease was attributed by the superstitious to the Jews who were accused of poisoning the wells so that the water would breed pestilence. Entire colonies of Jews were massacred, and thousands were so terrified that they took their own lives. The disease was extensively spread by numerous bands of religious zealots, who visited town after town, torturing their bodies in the vain hope of expiating the sins of the people. These flagellants, as they were called, comprised both men and women, who went about nearly naked, and each one wore a red cross upon the breast. The church reaped a rich harvest, for many of its frightened subjects gave to it their all. The donors were obliged to throw their gifts over the walls of their enclosure for the monks were afraid to come in contact with them, and shut the gates. Multitudes sought to escape the disease by living in caves and woods, and starved. Some endeavored to escape by the sea. They died, and the sailors who picked up their boats shared the same fate. Rotted bodies floated down the streams, polluting them and filling the air with the contagion. Some of the delirious victims ran through the streets of the village, tearing out the hair and scratching the faces of everyone they met.

The plague of 1663, 1664 and 1665, the last that prevailed very extensively, produced fewer deaths. In 1720 Marseilles was almost depopulated, and in 1790 Turkey, Poland and Russia were again visited. From all reports the present plague promises to destroy as many lives as those of former years.

Confederate Reminiscences.

From the Burlington Hawkeye.

Reminiscences of the war by Confederate authors are popular reading just now. They are highly interesting, generally written in a pleasant style, but there is something wonderfully mysterious about them that we can't exactly understand. We read a Confederate Colonel's account of the siege of Vicksburg, in which it appeared that Grant's lines were driven back steadily day by day all through the month of June, and why Pemberton ever surrendered isn't explained, and, indeed, it isn't stated, but rather the impression is given that he didn't, that Grant surrendered. And we have just read an account by a Confederate soldier of the siege of Petersburg, which, it appears, was only evacuated after the garrison had annihilated the Union army, and was then only evacuated on account of some mysterious reason that no fellow can find out.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PROF. HARRIS' RADICAL CURE FOR SPERMATTORHŒA.
THE

SHAPE & SIZE OF A SEMINAL PASTILLE
A Valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science, an entirely New and positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure of Seminal Emissions & Impotency by the only true way, viz: Direct Application to the principal Seat of the Disease, acting by Absorption, and exercising its specific influence on the Seminal Vesicles Ejaculatory Ducts, Prostrate Gland and Urethra. The use of the Remedy is attended with no pain or inconvenience, it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the sexual and nervous organizations wrecked from self-abuse and excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Nervous Debility, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, Etc. Etc. and the appearance of premature old age, usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring perfect Sexual Vigor, where it has been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in these troubles, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no Nonsense about this Preparation, Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. During the eight years that it has been in general use, we have thousands of testimonials as to its value, and it is now conceded by the Medical Profession to be the most rational means yet discovered of reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in a neat box, enough to last a month, and sent in a plain wrapper by mail sealed for $3.—Two boxes, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure unless in severe cases) $5.—Three boxes lasting three full months, will stop emissions, and restore vigor, in the worst cases, $7.—Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.
Send for a Descriptive Pamphlet giving Anatomical Illustrations, which will convince the most sceptical that they can be restored to perfect manhood, and fitted for the duties of life, same as if never affected.

LIVER.
Dr. Price's reputation has been acquired by candid, honest dealing and years of successful practice.
My practice not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experience and evidence to sustain it, does not tear down, make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed; no guess work, but knowledge gained oy years of experience in the treatment of Chronic diseases exclusively: no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinions, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything, or cure everybody, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their ailment, to call and investigate before they abandon hope, make interrogations and decide for yourselves; it will cost nothing as consultation is free. Visits made regularly.
DR. V. CLARENCE PRICE
Can be consulted at JANESVILLE, MYERS HOUSE, Saturday and Sunday, the 8th and 9th of February, 1879.

MILTON.

—The first lecture of the College Lyceum course was presented on Tuesday evening of last week, by Rev T P Sawin, of Janesville, his subject being "Mirabeau and the French Revolution." The audience was much larger than usual, College Chapel being well filled. A number came in late, which was annoying to both speaker and hearers, and those who intend to patronize the lectures that follow should make it a point to be in their seats prior to 7:30. The lecturer was introduced by Mr M J Whitford, Chairman of the lecture committee. The Reverend gentleman is a fluent, rapid speaker, and uses graceful and appropriate gestures. He held the close attention of his audience throughout, notwithstanding the subject was rather dry to a portion of the hearers who came to laugh rather than be instructed. The lecturer gave a complete history of the birth, life and death of this wonderful Frenchman, whose literary talent and magic oratory made him a giant among the great men of his day. The causes that produced the revolution and its attendant horrors were dwelt upon as fully as time would admit. The lecture was eminently instructive and entertaining, and made many new admirers for the gentleman who delivered it.

—Do not fail to attend the entertainment next Thursday evening at the Seventh Day Baptist church. "All is not gold that glitters" will be presented with a full cast.

—Farmers have been busy getting up their summer wood.

—The Pember House stands very high in the estimation of Milton people, and the most of them make it their headquarters when stopping in Janesville.

—Will the Milton cheese factory run next season? is the question that agitates Miltonians.

—Milton is worthily represented at the meeting of the State Agricultural and Horticultural conventions, which are in session at Madison this week. Superintendent Whitford opened the session with an address, subject: "Education of Work." On Wednesday J. C. Plumb, Esq., presents a paper on "Conditions of Hardiness," and Prof. Elward Searing, of the College faculty, an address on "A Winter Month in Northern Georgia." C. H. Greenman, of Wauwatosa, a former Miltonian, presents a paper on "Training and Pruning the Grape Vine," Friday.

—Help on the temperance cause by patronizing the dramatic entertainment next Thursday evening.

—John S. Harvey has gone out of the shoe trade and intends to move his family and household goods to Waushara county this week. Mr. Harvey has traded the house, in which he has been living, for a farm in that county, and henceforth will follow the plow. He has been a good citizen and an accommodating neighbor and we shall miss him. Mr. Harvey has the best wishes of all for future health and prosperity.

—Brother Badger, of the Register, made us a pleasant call last week.

—The old railroad building was moved away last week by Blaisdell and Bullock and now rests on its new foundation. Its removal helps the looks of that corner and enables teamsters to see down the track at that crossing 'ere the engine strikes them.

—The tobacco men were unable to take down their crops last week, the moist period not being of sufficient duration.

—Farmers hung to their sleighs last week, but the slipping was not first class, there being an undue prevalence of bare ground.

—Blacksmiths made a little money last week, the icy roads requiring sharp shoes on equines.

—Some of our citizens think that Rev. Mr. Sawin's lecture was the best that they ever had the pleasure of hearing, and yet they have heard Beecher and Wendell Phillips.

—Subscribe for the best weekly in the State, and address the Gazette Printing Co., to get it.

—Bert Briggs was on the sick list last week. The physicians are "gathering them in" these days.

—The Dramatic Club have decided to present "All is not Gold that Glitters," on next Thursday evening, instead of this week, as was announced. Unavoidable circumstances made the postponement necessary. Remember the date, Thursday evening, Feb. 13th.

—The Georgia Minstrels made the Milton house their headquarters last Friday, and their band gave a public concert after dinner in front of the hotel. Considering the limited number of players they make very fair music, the leader being a fine cornet player.

—John S. Harvey has sold his house and lot adjoining Burdick's shop, now occupied by Sam. Davy, to Oran Vincent.

—Mrs. Ellis has been quite ill, but is convalescent now.

—Rev. Mr. Loomis occupied the pulpit at the Seventh-day Baptist church last Saturday morning, Rev. Dunn going to Albion to attend the funeral of Elder Babcock.

—The band boys now have a trombone. D. F. Brown plays it.

—Miss Ella Giles, of Madison, delivers the second lecture of the Lyceum course this (Thursday) evening at College chapel. Her subject is "Some Mistakes of Ingersoll." Miss Giles is an author of much reputation, and those who have heard her lecture speak highly of her attainments in that field. We bespeak for her a large hearing this evening.

—The shipments of stock from this station last week were light. Davidson & Co. shipped one car load of sheep and Smith & Co. one car of hogs. The hog market was firm, but not very active owing to the fact that but very few hogs can be bought in this locality now. Shippers paid three dollars per hundred for good hogs.

—Williams & Borden are buying clover and grass seed. Clover sells at $3 to $3.15. Timothy at an even dollar.

—Jas. R. Kelly, of the C. M. & St. Paul Company, stepped off the train long enough to "shake" with us, last Saturday. He was on his way to Milwaukee and is looking healthier than when here before. James is almost indispensable to General Freight Agent Swan.

—Milton fishermen had a good run of luck at Lake Koshkonong, last week. Some of the fish were unusually large, weighing ten to twenty pounds each. A goodly number of our citizens were at the Lake for a day's sport during the week.

—T. C. McCracken has been appointed station agent at Crookston, on the St. Paul and Pacific Road. It is located three hundred miles north of St. Paul.

—B. J. Curtis has been in the doctor's hands for ten days past, and is now on the mend. We hope to see him out again soon.

—Stannard did some good shooting at Whitewater last week. The first match of ten birds he killed ten straight and took first money. In the twenty ball match he broke twenty straight and won the first prize.

—Jno W Hudson and wife, of Madison, arrived in town Saturday to visit their relatives.

REPORT OF MILTON GRADED SCHOOL.

Miss A. M. JOHNSON, Teacher.

The following are the names of pupils in the Grammar Department of the Milton graded school, whose average standing for the month ending January 31st, is nine, or more, upon a scale of ten. Charlie Post, 10; Alice Tomkins, Metta Smith, Galen Allen, Fred Alder, Curtis Plumb, Milton Whitford, Ida Davidson, Alta Wade, Giles Belknap, Fra Searing, Jimmie Borden.

Perfect in attendance—Alice Tomkins, Ida Davidson, Metta Smith, George Johnson, Galen Allen, Louie Rood, Curtis Plumb, Giles Belknap, Milton Whitford, Jimmie Borden, Alta Wade, Fra Searing.

Miss ADA B. MCCRAKEN, Teacher.

—Prof J M Stillman, of Chicago, made us a pleasant call Monday, while en route for Stoughton, where he is to conduct a musical convention this week. The Professor's time is fully occupied in that work this winter.

—R D Whitford, Esq, of Janesville, was in town Monday. His many Milton friends were glad to meet him.

HARMONY.

The Good Templars of Emerald Grove lodge assisted by the members of Harmony lodge gave an entertainment at the town hall in Harmony, on Thursday evening the 30th. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity. The programme as announced was carried out in full. Part first, "The Temperance Doctor," consisting of several characters represented by as many individuals, was well rendered and was frequently greeted with applause. Part second "The Fruits of the Wine Glass," also several characters which was well done. Between scenes were some recitations, songs, and instrumental music. All acted their parts well including a few rowdies from camp who acted their part well (out side the door.) The entertainment was a success financially, the receipts being $21.40, and all were satisfied that they had received the worth of their money. The Harmony Lodge, No. 357, I. O. of G. T., was organized October 31st, last, with twenty charter members and now numbers forty-one members. The officers elect for the quarter commencing February 1st, are:

W C T—Myron Webb.
W V T—Florence Betts.
W R Sec—Henry Griswold.
W F Sec—W E Boyd.
W T—Ada Webb.
W C—J H Boyd.
W M—C H Mosher.
W G—Jennie Boyd.
W S—John Snyder.
W A S—Frances Griswold.
W D M—Ella Mansur.
W R H S—Bell Turner.
W L H S—Alma Story.
P W C T—W C Butts.

Night of meeting, Wednesday.

JOHNSTOWN CENTER.

—The election of Carpenter as United States Senator is very satisfactory to the Republican element in this place.

—Mrs J Garry is very sick at the time of writing, but we understand is improving slowly.

—In the report of District No. 3, in last week's items, the name of Louis Nickerson was accidentally omitted.

—Herbert Waters, who has been very sick with lung fever for a few weeks past, is convalescing.

—The cheapest article at the present time is the Weekly Gazette at $1.50 per year. Subscribe.

—That broad smile on the countenance of H. P. Fellows has at last been accounted for. It is a girl, and mother and daughter are doing well.

Mrs. H. E. Servis, of Racine, will deliver a free temperance lecture at the church in Johnstown Center on Sunday evning February 9th. The Division of Sons of Temperance will have an open session and sociable on the following Monday evening. The public are cordially invited to attend both lecture and sociable.

—That boss colt of R. T. Pember's, now tips the beam at two thousand and fifty pounds. Next?

Negroes as Artists' Models.

Edward King's Letter to Boston Journal.

One of the most interesting places in Richmond, Va., is the studio of the sculptor Valentine, whose name has become familiar to the American public by means of the clever bust called "The Nation's Ward," which represents a saucy looking darkey with an old army cap perched on his wool. Mr. Valentine, who is a real enthusiast in his profession, and whose talent is now ripening under the pressure of labor and serious work, is very well known in England, and has sent very many of the products of his chisel there. The recumbent statue of Lee, which is at Lexington, in this State, is exceedingly well done. Mr. Valentine is now engaged upon a classical subject, which he intends to show at an English Royal Academy exhibition. It represents Andronache after her parting with Hector, and as she sits musing with her distaff lying idly in her lap, and with young Astyanax tugging at her robe.

Mr. Valentine finds much difficulty in getting the colored folks to sit or stand as models. These humble people are willing enough to earn the money offered until they see the mysterious paraphernallia of the artists' studios, and find the artists looking closely at them. Then they begin to be troubled and are anxious to be off. A prime source of trouble in employing them is that they cannot be brought to understand that the artist wants them in all the picturesqueness and raggedness of their street costume. If he finds some darkey in some obscure corner, clad in all colors of the rainbow, and furnishing the very type after which he has been searching for months, and bids him come "just as he is" to the studio next day, he is horrified to see the colored man appear in his best Sunday clothes, possibly arrayed in the doubtful splendor of a red necktie, and green gloves. He has infinite trouble, also, in arranging a model in any desired position. The inevitable tendency to slouch asserts itself in five minutes, and the artist is compelled to give up in despair. On one occasion, Mr. Shepard found an old negro man whose appearance was so remarkable that he seduced the miserable black-moor from his oxen and persuaded him to give him a sitting. The old man watched the artist's preparation with troubled looks for some time, and at last, he said softly, "Mass'r I'm jest gwine out to look after dem cattle." The artist realized that his subject was escaping him, and desperately endeavored to induce him to remain, but the darkey said, "Fo' God, Mas'r. I'se comin' right back; I'm jes' goin' to look after dem cattle," and he departed.

CITY AND COUNTY.

BRIEFLETS.

—A gloomy morning.

—The sisters and cisterns still pray for rain.

—To-night the Temple of Honor folk give another social hop at Temple Hall.

—Col. Burr Robbins' little girl, who has been quite ill with congestion of the lungs, is recovering.

—No wonder the police court is doing no business. There are two ministers' conventions, and a revival meeting in town.

—Marshal Keating's condition does not improve. To-day he seems some weaker, and great apprehension is felt by his friends as to the result of his illness.

—Mr. J. W. Nash left for the east to-day in company with Col. Burdick. They will make an extended trip through various Eastern cities, including Washington.

—Rev. Mr. Faville is evidently an unbeliever in the moral tendency of the theater. He is to give his people some further views on the subject at an early date.

—The trustees of Court Street church met last evening and organized by the election of J. B. Carle, as President; A. J. Ray, Treasurer; and Dr. E. E. Loomis, Secretary.

—Mr. Cyrus Miner went to Madison yesterday afternoon to attend the meeting of the executive committee of the State Agricultural Society, of which he is the Treasurer.

—Lou Croft, who has been confined to the house by illness for some days, is able to be out again. His infant son is however very sick, and little hopes are entertained of its recovery.

—Moody, alias Dibolo, the king fire-eater, had a good audience last night, and his efforts to entertain them were highly successful. He has plenty of fun in him, and knows how to make others enjoy themselves.

—Bro. Wilson, of the Times, may be a good census-taker, but he is badly off when it comes to counting the number of sinners who go forward for prayers in a revival meeting. He might get used to it with more experience.

—A rumor was on the streets to-day that a man had been hurt at Notbohm Bros.' mills. The rumor had no bottom, it being started by the fact that one of their employes drove up town at a furious rate seeking a doctor to attend a sick man.

—Lew Benedict's troubadour minstrels and specialty troupe ought to draw a good house to-morrow night. Benedict himself will head the fun, and is ably assisted by a number of mirth-making commedians and singers, who will present a varied and attractive programme.

—Mr. Bibbins, the Beloit stage man, grumbles about the rough roads. They shake a man up so that he don't get a chance to suffer from lack of exercise. That it makes a man healthy, if not wealthy, is shown from the fact that during the year past Mr. Bibbins has only missed two days.

—The Musical Club will meet at Miss Battle's music room on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The programme will be as follows: Op. 40 and 53, Chopin, played by Miss Araby Sutherland. Theme and variations in Ab, Schubert, played by Miss Battle and Miss Anderson, and a paper by Miss Fannie Pettit.

—Warren Hogden, the baggageman at the Northwestern depot, this morning arrested James Foley for using abusive language and threatening to hit him with a chunk of coal. Foley is said to have proved himself a great annoyance about the depot and railroad yard, where he spends much of his time.

—People are getting their appetites down to a plainer and healthier basis judging from the way Clark & Co. are shovelling out oat meal to their customers. There is a rush for it, and at three cents a pound, a man can afford to have a square meal of oat meal. They have a fresh and big supply now on hand.

—Rev. Mr. Scales had only a baker's dozen to hear his lecture last evening on the "Ku Klux." This was rather discouraging, but he gave to those present a minute account of his experiences with the masked men. The lecture should have been more generally listened to as it presented many points of interest.

—Mr. William Booth, of Lawrence, Kansas, who is the State agent for the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, called at the Gazette office yesterday. When he took his departure he took with him his twenty-sixth annual receipt for subscription to the Gazette, he having been a constant reader of its columns since 1853.

—A. M. Carter, of Johnstown, left for Madison this afternoon to attend the reunion of those who framed the State constitution. Of the convention who framed the constitution as it was adopted, he and Mr. Foote, of Center, are the only representatives living in this county, though there are some who attended the previous convention called for that purpose.

—Two tramps went through the show cases of two Beloit shoe stores Saturday evening, but were afterward caught and a part of the stolen property recovered. They have been sentenced to ninety days each in jail. A brakeman on the Northwestern road had two coats stolen from his caboose at Beloit the same night, but was not so lucky in getting track of the thieves or the property.

NO AGREEMENT.

The case of the State vs. J. Frank Fox and Levi Mills has taken up a good deal of time, and was brought to a very unsatisfactory close last night. For several days testimony has been taken before Justice Balch, and a jury of six, the charge being that the defendants hired a team of Yeager & McKey to go to Delavan, and that instead of doing so they drove to Elkhorn, and Geneva and back by Delavan and Emerald Grove, and in doing so overdrove the horses, so that one died almost instantly, after reaching the stable, and the other was badly used up. The defendants admitted that they went to Elkhorn, but claimed that they told Mr. Yeager that they were going there. They denied having been in Geneva, and also denied that they had driven the team beyond an ordinary gait. An evening session was held last night, and at fifteen minutes to twelve the case went to the jury. The six men who were to decide the case, occupied Justice Balch's room, leaving his Honor to stand shivering outside while they made up a verdict. They talked and argued among themselves until nearly two o'clock, when they let the Justice in to warm himself. They had reached no verdict, and there being no prospect of an agreement, they were discharged. It is understood that they stood three for acquittal and three for conviction, and finally two of the latter said they would join in a verdict of acquittal if the third one would yield, but he would not. The case will be called up again at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

A civil suit has also been commenced against J. Frank Fox, before Justice Prichard. This will be taken up Friday morning.

WASTE OF WORDS.

The Aldermen Amuse Themselves with Gas about Water.

A Proposal to Plant Cisterns in Each Ward of the City.

The Lack of a Quorum Necessitates an Adjournment.

The Common Council was convened in regular session, last evening, at the City Hall, Mr. President Davies in the chair, and all the Aldermen present except Aldermen Hemming, Joyce and Lawrence.

The journal of the last meeting was read and approved.

The Clerk read a communication from J. A. Sleeper, Esq., of Chicago, informing the Mayor that unless the Council took favorable action on the claim of Mrs. Jones, he should invite the city to appear before Uncle Sam, at Madison.

The January reports of the Board of Education, and the Police Justice were received and referred.

A few bills were read by the Clerk and referred.

President Davies presented a petition of citizens, asking the Council to take no action looking to the erection of water works at this time. The petition was received and placed on file.

Ald. Church—"I move for an order for the construction of two cisterns in each ward, of the capacity of five hundred barrels each; to be located by the Aldermen of each ward, and the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department for fire purposes. The work to be let by sealed proposals to the lowest responsible bidder, and to be constructed after specifications for the same, and the said contractors shall give good and sufficient bonds—to be approved by the Council—that the said cisterns shall hold water for five years and be located by the Aldermen of each ward, and that a committee of one from each ward be appointed as a committee."

Ald. McKinney moved that the motion be laid on the table. Adopted.

There being no question before the Council, a free and easy debate ensued in relation to fire protection. Ald. Church maintaining that with the protection of these cisterns, more property, located remote from the river, could be reached by the Fire Department than from any other proposed method, and at a much less cost.

Ald. McKinney maintained that the taxpayers owning property back from the river preferred to trust to the solvency of insurance companies, rather than in the scant supply of water furnished by such a system, when the cost of insurance was no greater than the tax from building cisterns.

Ald. Fitzgibbon moved to reconsider the order, passed at the last meeting, authorizing the two engine houses to be connected by telegraph. Adopted.

Ald. McKinney moved that the work of connecting the two houses by telegraph be let by contract, and the clerk authorized to advertise for bids. Lost.

Ald. McKinney then moved an indefinite postponement of the whole question, which prevailed.

Ald. Vankirk, from the Finance Committee, reported in favor of allowing sundry bills, which was concurred in.

Ald. Fitzgibbon, from the Gas Committee, reported back all applications for lamp posts, in the hands of his committee, without recommendation, stating that in many places where lamp posts were asked for they had already been erected, and if the applications were all in the hands of the Council they could be called up at any time and acted upon.

Ald. McKinney wanted the Gas Committee to report each particular lamp post which had been referred to them, and put his remarks in shape of a motion of instruction to that committee. After Ald. Fitzgibbon and McKinney had given the council several quantities of gas in the way of sharp personal "cross fires," the motion was adopted.

Ald. Hutchinson, from the School Committee, reported back the January report of the Board of Education as correct. Filed. The report shows an expenditure for the month of January of $410 84.

Ald. Hutchinson moved a reconsideration of the vote taken at the last meeting in relation to water works. The Alderman stated that he made this motion for the purpose of giving those who were of the opinion that they had voted wrong an opportunity to correct their mistake.

Ald. McKinney, after a lengthy and hot debate had been indulged, moved the previous question, which prevailed. Pending the main question Alds. Church and Fitzgibbon left the room. President Davies ordered the clerk to call the roll—no quorum—and declared the council adjourned for two weeks.

THE WEATHER.

The thermometer at 7 o'clock this morning stood at 30 degrees above and at 2 o'clock this afternoon at 34 degrees above. A slight fall of moist snow during the day. One year ago to-day at corresponding hours the thermometer stood at 26 and 38 degrees above.

FIRE ALARMS.

The electric fire alarm system is gradually being increased and furthered in the city, thanks to the enterprise of the members of the department, who have done all of the work themselves and who have paid nearly all the bills. There are now on the West side five places where alarms are received, and with a little further improvement alarms can also be sent from these points to the engine house. A line runs from the Harris works to the engine house so that the night watchman there can let it be known at once if he sees a blaze. On the East side there are eighteen points from which alarms can be sent, or can be received. One of the members has just moved down in the vicinity of the shoe factory, and a line will be at once run down to his house, from the engine house. The East side fire lads also propose to send the line across the river near the shoe factory and connect with the Harris works, so that an alarm from there can be as readily received or given as from any of the other points. The gradual increase in this electric alarm system is a unique feature of the history of Janesville, as in most cities such advantages are only secured by heavy appropriations, and a corps of scientists and contractors to share the plunder. The great advantage of having the department receive an alarm at lightning speed needs no comment to make it apparent, and the efforts of the members to increase the efficiency of the department in saving and protecting property of others, should win for them the praise they so well merit.

Quicken the Circulation.

Don't let the blood stagnate in your veins. You can prevent its doing so by increasing its volume and purity, by stimulating the digestive organs, and encouraging assimilation, with that matchless vitalizing agent, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. People not afflicted with any organic or inorganic disease, grow wan and haggard simply because their blood is thin, watery, deficient in nourishing properties and so meager in quantity that the extremities are very imperfectly supplied with it, and the superficial circulation extremely feeble. Hence the bloodless appearance of the countenance. But when the Bitters are used to enrich and quicken the blood, the rosy hue of health returns to the cheek, the frame acquires substance as well as vigor, the appetite improves, and no digestive qualms interfere either with its gratification or the subsequent tranquility of the stomach. feb4deodw1w

A Medicine Chest for 25 Cents.

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a good cathartic. SWAYNE'S TAR AND SARSAPARILLA PILLS are prepared expressly to meet this necessity; being composed of purely vegetable ingredients, of which Podophyllin or Mandrake, Pine Tree Tar, Sarsaparilla, Yellow Dock and other concentrated juices enter largely into their composition; the whole strength of which is extracted on an entirely new principle. They are mild in their operation, produce no griping, and are truly a valuable purgative aperient, anti-billious and cathartic medicine They stimulate the liver to healthy action, cleanse the stomach and bowels of all impurities. Curing sick and nervous headache, dyspepsia or indigestion, billious, intermittent, remittent and congestive fevers, languor, drowsiness, aching pains in the back, head, slight chills, with flushes of heat, female irregularities, and for a billious and costive habit, no medicine is so prompt and effectual as DR. SWAYNE'S TAR AND SARSAPARILLA PILLS. If your druggist or storekeeper has not got them, or will not procure them for you, we will forward them by mail on receipt of price, (in currency or postage stamps), 25 cents a box, or five boxes for $1. ### It Stopped the Cough!

I take great pleasure in giving testimony to the efficacy of Hale's Cough Cordial in easily curing a persistent cough and catarrh. For a month while engaged nightly in public speaking, I had suffered with an annoying cough which stubbornly resisted the various cough remedies that I had taken. Through the advice of friends I fortunately gave Hale's Cough Cordial a trial, when my coughing ceased at once, and the following day it had done its work complete and I felt all right. The first dose went directly to the cold spot in my lungs, and in the midst of a general warmth and perspiration the stubborn cough seemed to dissolve. In gratitude and esteem, I am Yours truly, dec7dawly JAMES ROSS.
